SAILING SHIPS

A woman named Grace Hopper gave us this quotation:

"A ship in port is safe, but that's not what ships are built for."

That is very true. Ships can appear to be graceful and seaworthy sitting on shore, but the real test of their qualities is found on the high seas. The true challenge to our faith is not in the protected, safest moments of our lives, but in the times when we "sail out from the shore."

James (in 1:2-3) knew this principle. He told us to be glad when we face trials because those tests develop perseverance or the ability to remain steadfast and strong in faith. Simply put, that strength to endure cannot come without the trials.

Upcoming Events

Next visitation meeting is Wednesday February 15th, at 6:15 in the fellowship hall. If you'd like to grab a sack lunch and be here to eat together before the meeting, come at 6:00. Everyone is encouraged to come.
