AIM

AIM ALMOST DONE!

It has come to my attention that I missed the last newsletter I was supposed to send, I am very sorry! It was lost in my email, I had forgotten to send it out. But in this issue I will address what happened over the past three months and what I plan to do in the future. This is my last newsletter, I will be finishing AIM very soon and will be free to pursue my own goals. Those goals will be gone over in great detail in this issue of my newsletter.

Moving?

I will not be moving back to west Texas. I have found a very good living arrangement for the foreseeable future, and I have three jobs I am currently working; with plenty of promise on the horizon for more advancement in career and school, I feel it is the best option for me currently.

Continuing In Ministry?

It is my goal to stay very active in the church's outreach to the college campus at SAC, I hope to host plenty of Bible studies and talk to many people about God's word. There is also a possibility that the current minister of the congregation I am with now will train me to be a preacher in his place, for the possibility that he will be moving on to a different position or location. While ministry will not be my "career" per se, it will be in the forefront of my everyday life.

The Past Few Months

These last couple of months have been a whole lot of fun! We have put on a VBS, we went to the beach at Port Aransas, we did our last doorknocking campaign of the year, and to top it all off we are going to Six flags soon; all that was on top of our normal ministries we do from week to week. The VBS we put on was "Make A Splash!" we put a water theme on it because it was the best way to have an interactive outdoor VBS in the summer in San Antonio. We had about thirty kids from all over San Antonio come for that all three days we put it on. The beach trip was a day trip our coordinator took us on down to the Gulf of Mexico, we drove to the port and then took a ferry to the beach. We got to see sand sculptures for the contest they were having at the time, and we met some people who were missionaries as well! They were from the philippines, and were on their first vacation in America. The door knocking campaign was very good, we had several responses to our invitations to the Bible classes we put on every thursday evening.

Salutations

So now comes the close on another chapter of life. For those who are financially supporting me: Thank you for giving up what you have to help me do this, you gave from the kindness of your heart. Your commitment to me is now done, but I hope you will continue to support different missions as much as you can. And for those who supported me through other means: Thank you! The constant prayers for my safety and for the word of God to be spread have helped more than you know!

The decision to go through the AIM program was worth it, I learned quite a bit about God's word, and a lot about myself. But when one chapter ends, another begins; and with this new beginning I will work my hardest to go through life, one step at a time with God by my side. And so for the last time.

May the Lord of peace Himself give you His peace at all times and in every way. May the Lord be with all of you. -2 Thessalonians 3:16-

In love and prayers,

Samson Weiss
